- 3 to 5 cans diced green chilis (4 oz cans)

- 1 tsp chili pd (powder)
- 1 tsp coarse black pepper
- 1 tsp garlic salt
- 1 tsp kosher salt
- 2 cups bite size potatoes, partially cooked

STEPS

1. Heat oil, add onion, cook till clear. Add garlic and fresh peppers.
2. Cook hamburger in a separate pan with some garlic salt.
3. Put onion mixture, hamburger, and all the rest of the ingredients in a stock pot.
4. Bring to a good simmer and simmer for about 40 min.
5. Really better the 2nd day.

From Elaine: the green chilis are 4 oz cans. For a double batch, one bigger can is cheaper than lots of little ones. All spices can be increased according to your taste, and you can always use a little more or less of anything to suit you.

Transcribed from Elaine's handwritten card. Source didn't list servings or the size of the tomato can.

> Heart-healthy tip: Use 90% lean ground beef or ground turkey and drain it after browning. The chilis and spices carry the flavor.
