Serves a big pot (freezes well)
Simmer 1 hour
Method dump soup, no draining

INGREDIENTS

- 2 cans (11 oz) white shoepeg corn (white corn works if you can't find it)
- 1 can (15 oz) black beans
- 1 can (15 oz) kidney beans
- 1 can (15 oz) pinto beans
- 2 cans (14.5–15 oz) stewed tomatoes
- 1 can Rotel or diced tomatoes with green chilies (mild or original)
- 1 packet Hidden Valley Ranch dressing mix
- 1 packet taco seasoning mix
- 2 cups water

STEPS

1. Don't drain anything. Dump the corn, black beans, kidney beans, pinto beans, stewed tomatoes, and Rotel into a large pot.
2. Add the ranch dressing mix, the taco seasoning mix, and the 2 cups of water. Mix it together.
3. Bring to a boil, then turn the heat down to low.
4. Simmer for 1 hour.

Amounts are estimated from Sue's video, where she names the cans by size and count. She didn't give a serving count or the Rotel can size. Her meat version is called Santa Fe Soup, on the same cookbook page. Freezes well.

> Heart-healthy tip: Rinse and drain the beans and corn to cut sodium (this makes it a little thinner, so you may want less water). Use low-sodium taco seasoning and no-salt-added tomatoes, and skip or halve the ranch packet. Top with plain Greek yogurt instead of sour cream and a light sprinkle of reduced-fat cheese. Beans are great for cholesterol.
